A word from Our Team Rector:

Feeling Thirsty?

Last year, the British public consumed over 3 billion litres of bottled water! At the same time, a billion people around the world didn't have access to clean water. Popular mineral water generates up to 600 times more CO2 equivalent than tap water and the plastic generated to store it is having huge consequences for our oceans and marine life. Economically and environmentally, it seems that buying bottled water is becoming more immoral.

I've always been suspicious of bottled water: A year or two ago, I was driving north along the M6 and I overtook a Malvern Spring lorry heading in the same direction (from the M5), at exactly the same time, a Buxton Spring lorry passed me heading south on the opposite side of the carriageway! What a weird and wonderful world we live in: Moving water around the country in little plastic bottles, when all the time we have it on tap.

Few of us know what it is like to be genuinely thirsty. Thirst isn't the feeling we get on a hot day, after we've taken the dog for a walk. Thirst is living without the prospect of clean drinking water for miles around us and struggling to find shade in which to shelter. When it comes to drinking water, in the West, we are certainly complacent. More alarmingly, we are just as complacent about the need to quench our spiritual thirst.

Jesus was traveling from a Judea in the South to Galilee in the north. On the way, He stopped at a famous well (a well known well) called Jacob's well. It's still there today, and archaeologists reckon it's 4000 years old. Jesus was tired, hot, hungry and thirsty. The disciples left Him to get some food in the heat of the day and Jesus sat down by the well. Just then, a woman came to draw water. Jesus makes a request, "Give a me a drink".

"How can you speak to me? You are a Jewish man and I am a Samaritan woman", comes the reply. Jesus suggests that she should have asked Him for a drink, "those who drink of the water that I will give them will never be thirsty. The water that I will give will become in them a spring of water gushing up to eternal life."

Jesus says, "Come to me - and you need not be thirsty ever again". He says, "Come to me, all you who are weary and heavy laden, and I will refresh you".

If only we would - How many people do we know who are chasing a mirage on the horizon? The illusion of water on the surface of the tarmac as people drive along a road in the heat of summer. Just as you think you've reached it, it's gone and more appears further ahead. So it is with the temporary things that we long for in life to make us happy. Cars, holidays, gadgets, and even bottled water! The truth is we will never be content until we find living water for the soul.

ENFORD VILLAGE HALL FILM CLUB

Tuesday 27th March The Death of Stalin

The internal political landscape of 1950's Soviet Russia takes on darkly comic form in a new film by Emmy award-winning and Oscar-nominated writer/director Armando Iannucci.

In the days following Stalin's collapse, his core team of ministers tussle for control; some want positive change in the Soviet Union, others have more sinister motives. Their one common trait? They're all just desperately trying to remain alive.
A film that combines comedy, drama, pathos and political manoeuvring.

A DELICIOUS WINTER SOUP RECIPE

Watercress and Celeriac Soup

I've cooked this soup so many times recently - it's a really delicious one and never fails! Everyone seems to love it - even my children (don't tell them it's celeriac!)

2 bunches of watercress (bags from supermarket)
65g/2.5oz butter
1 large onion
350g/12oz celeriac (buy a small one and cut off the outer knobbly bits leaving the nice cream middle and chop into chunks - no particular size)
40g/1.5oz plain flour
1.2litres/2 pints chicken stock (I use Knorr Chicken stock pots -any supermarket sells these. I use 4 of them in 2 pints boiling water)
300ml (1/2 pint) hot milk teensy bit of single cream (for extra deliciousness)

1. Wash the watercress - don't remove stalks.
2. Melt butter in a large saucepan and stir the onion and celeriac, not letting them brown. Add flour, mix well, then add the stock and some salt and pepper (good pinch of each). Bring to the boil, then simmer, covered, for 5 mins. Transfer to a low oven (160) still covered for 30 mins OR until tender - just poke in a fork or sharp knife - they should be soft. Might take longer than 30 mins.
3. Add the watercress and simmer for a further 5 mins. Puree in a processor or with a stick liquidiser. Add the milk and taste. It might need a bit more salt or pepper.
4. To serve, stir in a little cream. Yummy!
5. You can freeze this but do it before you add any cream

This recipe was sent in by Jeni Scott-Dalgleish. If you have a favourite recipe you think others might enjoy then please do send it to us.

TAKE FIVE TO STOP FRAUD

Neighbourhood Watch is proud to be supporting Take Five To Stop Fraud Week.

Take Five To Stop Fraud is part of the national campaign from Financial Fraud Action UK and the Government, backed by the banking industry coming together to tackle fraud.

The advice being issued this week is really simple but it can stop you becoming a victim of fraud.

1. A genuine bank or organisation will never contact you out of the blue to ask for your PIN, full password or to move money to another account. Only give out your personal or financial details to use a service that you have given your consent to, that you trust and that you are expecting to be contacted by.
2. Don't be tricked into giving a fraudster access to your personal or financial details. Never automatically click on a link in an unexpected email or text.
3. Always question uninvited approaches in case it's a scam. Instead, contact the company directly using a known email or phone number.

To read more about the campaign and to access all resources go to https://takefive-stopfraud.org.uk

Please share this information with friends and family and together we can help stop fraud.

Continuing our series of 5 emails from Lisa Goodship, daughter of Enford residents Jenny and Paul, telling of a short but eventful trip she made with her boyfriend, Dallas, to India. We will be publishing their story over the coming months and hope you all enjoy them. Lisa and Dallas currently live in New Zealand.

Impressions of India

Part 2 - Greetings from Coonoor

Since my last email we have been enjoying time in Kochi and travelled north to Coonoor.

One thing I missed in Kochi was a trip that included visiting the local laundry. Thankfully it was not our garments (yet) that required some attention but that of the surrounding town! Most accommodations in Kochi (business and personal) don't have a washing machine and all laundry is taken to the local launderette - but not as we know it! There are around 40 families who own the business and it has continued through generations. The families were originally brought to the area to launder the uniform of the military. Following the arrival of the British and more wealth to the area, the richer families began also taking and paying for their laundry to be done. This continues today with most hospitals, hotels and families getting their clothes and linen laundered here, but not in machines. There are small outside bays in which a person stands in a water bath, slapping the clothes against stone to clean them before hanging them to dry outside in a field on huge lines. No pegs are used. The material is secured through tightly woven, coconut fibre twisted into long, tight lines. How they keep track of what belongs to who I will never know!

Today was our first travel day. We caught a train to and then a mini bus to Ooty. Fortunately, we travelled in an air-conditioned carriage in which we had comfy recliners, spare seats and some of the group actually got cold! I hate to use the term but the second-class carriages (yes, they really are called this) looked like a 'cattle truck'. People sat, crammed together, many others standing, in a carriage with no windows, only barred apertures; a scene which almost looked movie-like rather than everyday life. It's at times like these travelling that you certainly get a true sense of how materialistic we can be and what we take for granted in life. It makes you stop and think for a moment.

We then travelled by minivan up the winding roads to Ooty. Driving here is 'interesting' but we made it here safely! We are now high in the tea plantations at an altitude of 1850m above sea level, where the temperature is 17 degrees and most of the group are wrapped up in puffa jackets, fleeces and shivering -well, those outside drinking beer rather than those inside sipping tea and Brooke Bond at that!. Apparently Darjeeling is the best tea in India.

Our evening meal was cooked at our homestay where we were served fried rice, chilli chicken, dal, chapatti and chicken curry (rather easier to digest than at 7 in the morning which we have had to do!).

Well it's nearly 10pm so I must go, have my cold shower (no hot water in the showers since arriving) and make my way to bed.
